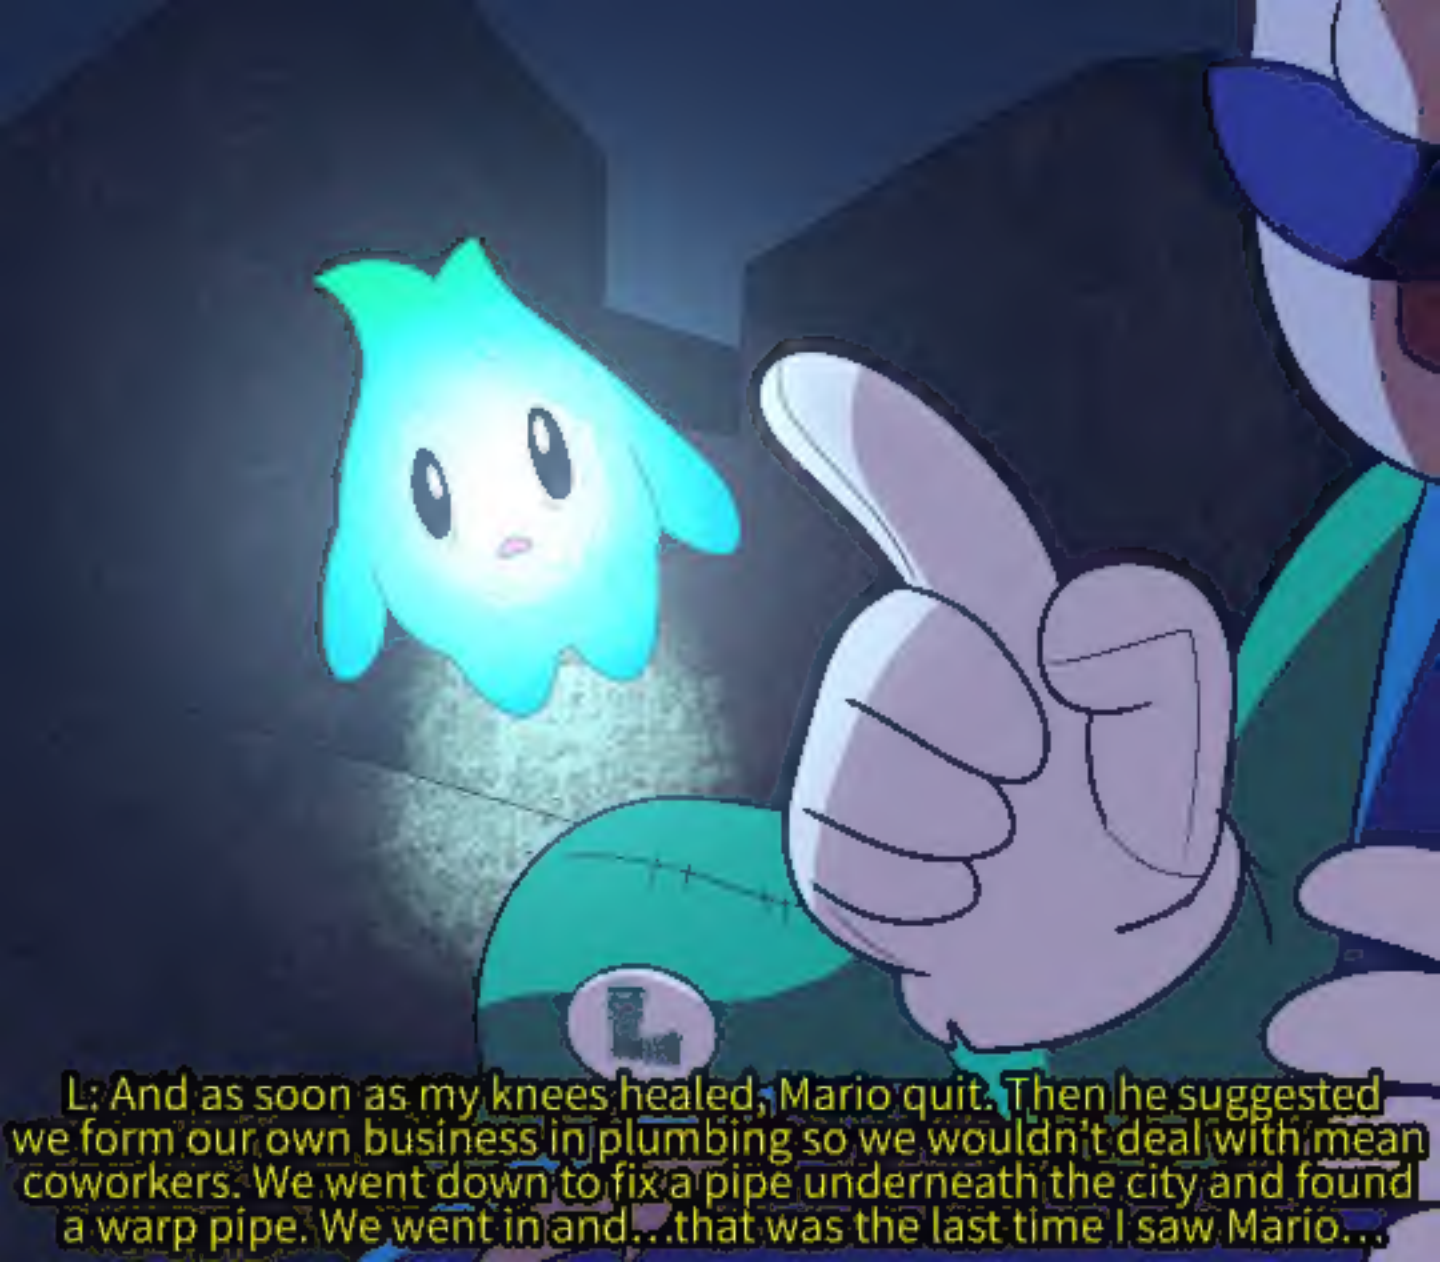
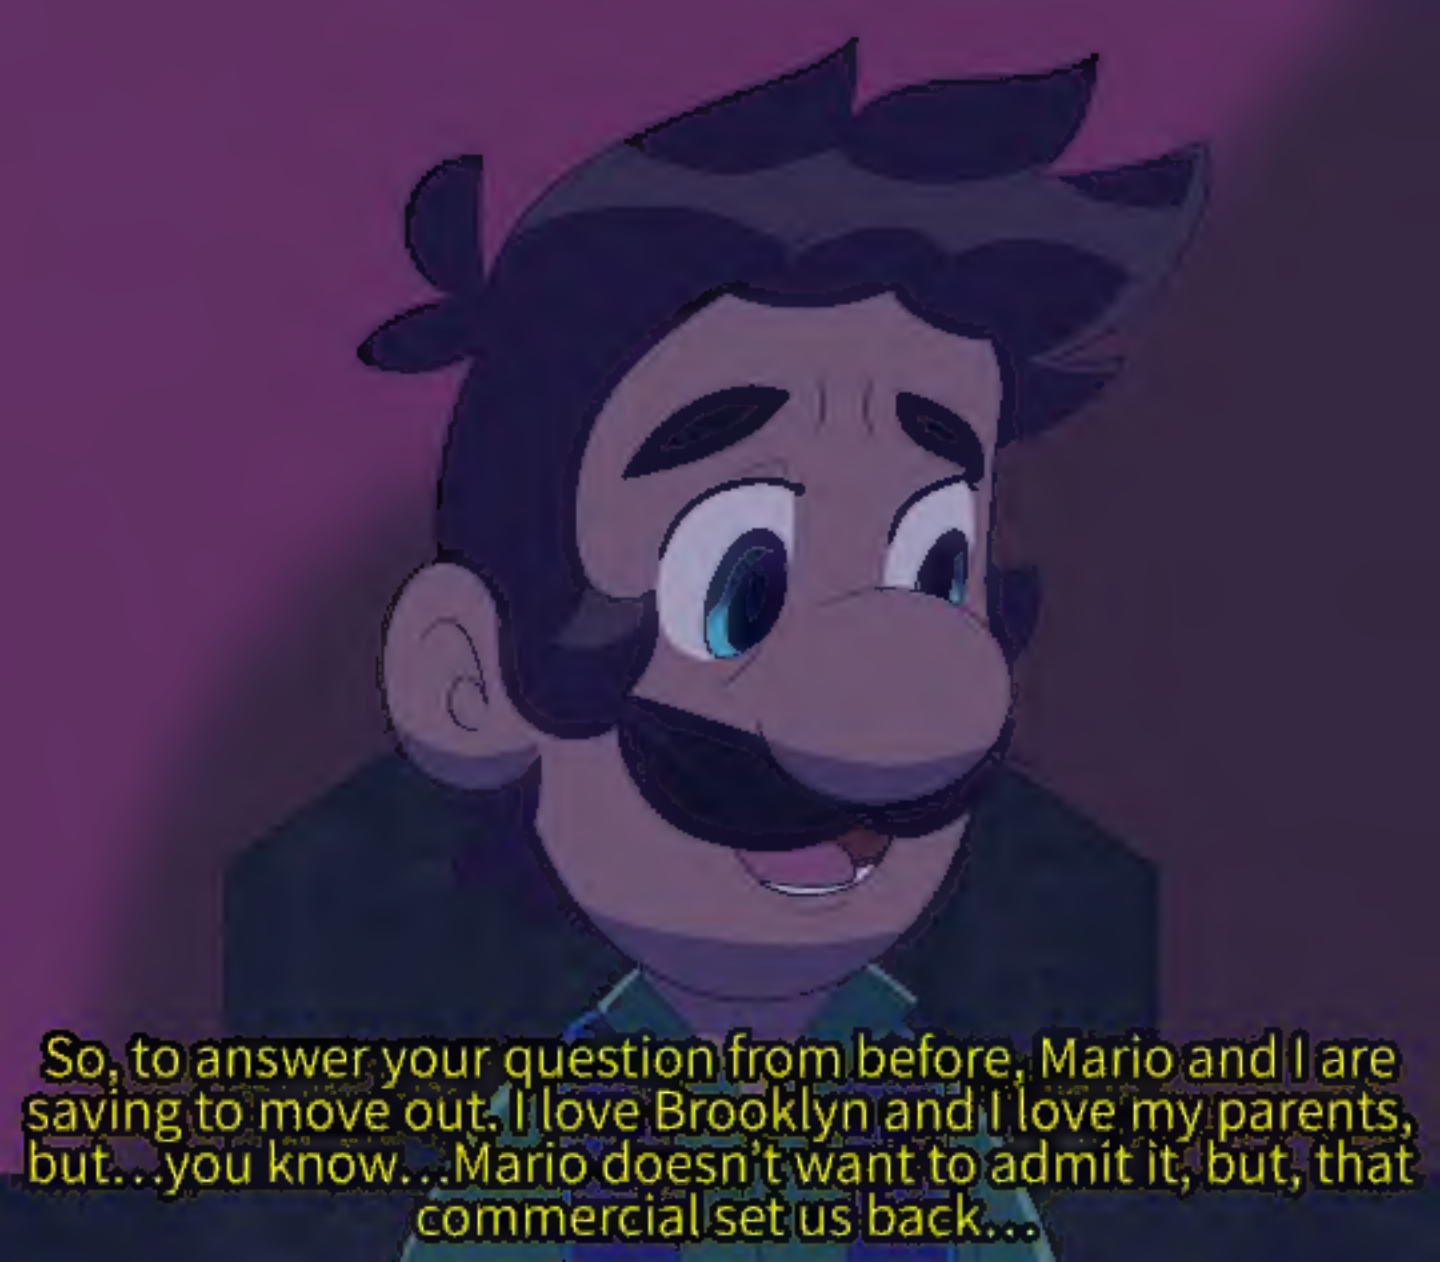
Alright, I'm gonna sit back down, ugh, my knees hurt
from that run earlier...

KP: So did you and your brother ever get vengeance?
L: Oh we tried! There was a lawsuit and everything! But our ex-boss, Spike, insisted it was my fault and junk...



L: And as soon as my knees healed, Mario quit. Then he suggested we form our own business in plumbing so we wouldn't deal with mean coworkers. We went down to fix a pipe underneath the city and found a warp pipe. We went in and...that was the last time I saw Mario...



So, to answer your question from before, Mario and I are saving to move out. I love Brooklyn and I love my parents, but…you know…Mario doesn't want to admit it, but, that commercial set us back…

L: Awwww, is little Star Child getting sleepy?
LL:....maybe...

You know, when Mario and I were fussy before bed, my Mama would sing us to sleep. Would you like that,
Star Child?

Absolutely not.

L: singing Ninna Nanna, Ninna Nanna-
LL: Noooooo you remind me of MOTHER!